Diving 2012

The Club is already looking to next year and some exciting diving!

Why not come and join us? Meet down at the baths and get fit, or try out your gear ready for the next weekend? All welcome new and old members.

This Club might be small but we have considerable experience, knowledge and people who want to dive. We do not spend every weekend training at a quarry, we arrange trips to cater for all experiences! We are a Club and should be proud that we have organisers who ensure the diving is for Club Members!

Looking forward to our next event is the Christmas Bash which again is being held at the Moorside in Disley (who knows what the disco theme will be this year? after the Abba tribute band last time. The venue was chosen by the majority as an excuse to have a night away and a couple of drinks for a very reasonable price, thanks as ever to Julia for the organising. We will follow this with the AGM in the New Year and then to the diving.

First off the blocks is likely to be Fred with a hopefully cheap and cheerful long weekend to rival Majorca this year. Always a fantastic way to get in the water to start the year and usually something different.

We then have Kevin stepping up to the mark to arrange a trip to Poole for a long(ish) weekend at the start of July. New diving for most divers and great to see some of the newer divers booking on. Should be interesting for all as plenty of wrecks in this area!

Then on the 08th September we have Jan arranging the much talked about trip to Doune Knoydart! The trip is always booked up, the skipper does not have to advertise and we have to drive to Mallaig before I believe a boat meets us to take us there. Where there is appears to be some debate as it is not easily accessible by car and pubs are conspicuous by their absence! This is new for this club except for Norway where going to the pub was just another experience all of its own! already fully booked lets hope for some decent weather!

Other trips to follow (will you be one of the organisers? where do you want to go?)
